Last summer, I goes to Europe for a vacation. I had plan to visit several countries, but my trip was cut short. While I was in France, I meet an interesting artist who showed me their studio. He was painting a portrait when I seen him. The next day, I take a train to Italy, but I forget my passport at the hotel. I quickly returned to get it, but the train has already left. Eventually, I decided to spent another day in France. I has never been more frustrated during a trip. I learned an important lesson: always check your belongings before leaving.
